Artistry in Music

Jay has been called a Modern Merlin and Troubador. He is a magician, musician and producer who has travelled the world for 25 years performing at some of the top theatres and venues. Over this time, Jay's music has evolved from soundtracks for stage and film to a sincere, acoustic style that expresses his unique life experience.

Jay's love for music goes back to his early childhood. Growing up, he played cello in a string orchestra, drums in a school band and first picked up the guitar at age 12. He also sang in the Sierra Boys choir and performed in numerous stage plays and musicals. Straight out of high school, he moved to Hollywood to pursue a career as an entertainer. However, as fate would have it, it was as a magician that he gained his first international fame. Soon, he began composing soundtracks for his magical productions, which led to three acclaimed albums which have sold over 50,000 copies. One of the highlights of his musical career was an invitation to Vienna to compose and perform an original score for the ballet "Angels in Disguise". He played live keyboards with the Vienna Symphonic Orchestra at the show's premiere.

All of this was still overshadowed by Jay's career as one of the world's top magicians. It was his recent move to Australia that allowed him to refocus on performing and composing music. Not wasting any time, he spent the last year producing the CD "Life on the Run" which has been released to rave reviews. This album showcases a number of his original songs, now being heard on over 800 radio stations worldwide.

He was the opening act at the Akoostik Festival and was featured at the Wauchope Festival, where he gave a 30 minute solo concert. The following week in Tamworth, Jay took charge of one of the central stages for the entire Festival. His show was a resounding success and he was a feature act on the main closing concert before an audience of over 4000! With two world tours on the horizon, Jay has already been booked for the Independent Country Stampede in Texas, the Canberra Festival and the Tamworth Festival 2011.

Above all, Jay is a consummate entertainer who sings from the heart and plays music for the sheer joy of it. With all the current momentum on radio and stage, he's quickly emerging as one of Australia's top country acts. Already in the works are a solo album along with more concerts at national and international festivals.
